LONDON, April 21.-The big majority in the House of Commons last evening in favor of continuing the grant of £10,000 to the Duke of Edinburgh is aby no means to be regarded as testifying to the Duke's popularity or as evidence of Parliament's obsequiousness to royalty. It is a matter of fact that the Liberals voted to continue the grant very largely out of respect for Mr. Gladstone, who made the arrangement whereby it was conferred upon the Duke. Mr. Gladstone had the fulfilment of his contract to continue the grant so much at heart that he told the Liberal whips ment of his contract to continue the grant so much at heart that he told the Liberal whips that if the grant were not supported by the Liberals he would come into the House and speak in favor of its continuance, however lil he might be.

If by any chance the supporters of the Government had been outvoted, the Ministers would also have appealed to the House to consult their dignity in observing the provisions of an international marriage settlement.

Underlying the debate was a strong feeling of contempt for the Duke of Edinburgh, which was only half concealed. It is an open secret that both the Queen and the Prince of Wales intervened with the Duke and urged him to surrender the whole annuity after his succession to the Coburg Duchy, and it is also known that both Lord Salfsbury and Mr. Gladstone, with whom the Duke consulted, gave him advice similar to that given by the Queen and the Prince of Wales. It was withthe greatest difficulty that they persuaded him to surrender the £10,000, but nothing that could be said would induce him to give up the remaining £10,000. As the Radiens will annually renew their protests against the payment of the grant, royaity generally will have abundant reason to regret the Duke's meanness.

His select English circle are spreading the report that the Duke intends to expend the entire sum of the grant in a month's junketing at Clarence House, his London residence. Public money continues to maintain Carence House for him, but he will have to alter his character mightily if he becomes as lavish in his hespitality as his friends intimate, even at the expense of somebody else.

The debate in the Commons was very exciting and created much confusion. Lord Randolph Churchili in opposing the motion made a savage attack upon the Radieals in general and Mr. Labouchere in particular. Though he looked ill, he spook with a great deal of vigor and earnestness. He eulogized Mr. Gladstone, and declared that if he were in the House he would administer to Mr. Labouchere and his fellow liadicals a dr

Ical, shouted: "His mother has plenty of money."

Lord Randolph's speech was greeted with frequent derisive laughter from the Radicals, and Mr. Labouchere and Mr. Storey kept up a running fire of interruptions. Commenting on Lord Randolph's speech the Chapmick says: "It would be merciful to draw a veil over the scene. Much to Mr. Balfour's relief, toward the end of his speech Lord Randolph quieted down and quoted an effective passage from a speech made by O'Connell."

NOBLE LORDS IN TROUBLE, Pinnacial Embarrassments of Members of the British Aristocracy.

London, April 21. - The financial troubles of members of the aristocracy are coming into unwonted prominence. Lord Sudley, who was at one time enormously wealthy, has lost his fortune through investments in the Winchester House Trust, and the failure of the Muriettas. Lord Thurlow has been declared a bankrupt. The Earl of Buchan, whose family is among the oldest of the Scotch peerfamily is among the oldest of the Scotch peerage, has made a most disgraceful appearance in the Bankruptey Court. In the course of his examination he told how, when he was young, he obtained allvelihood as a jockey. In his later years he has subsisted upon loans obtained from insurance companies by giving mortgages on his estates, and the proceeds of betting on horse races. He also admitted that he had been a co-respondent in a divorce case. His son is now assisting in his support.

Another aristocrat, the from W. G. Fitz-clarence, son of the Earl of that name, testified in the Bankruptery Court that his labilities were £754 and his assets consisted only of a ring, which was worth perhaps thirty shillings. His relatives made arrangements to pay his debts, and he was thus saved from bankrupter. pay his debt

The Italian Government Sustained. ROME, April 21.—There was a stormy debate on the naval budget in the Chamber of Depu-ties to-day. Admiral Morin, Minister of Marine, spoke in opposition to the proposed economies in the navy, saying that they would lead to the rain of the fleet and to the dishenor of Italy. Framier Crispi supported Admiral Moris. The Chamber eventually, by a vote of 277 to 43, rejected a motion offered by the Marquis Compans, directed against the Government.

TROUBLES OF BABYLON CHURCH. Sunday School Superintendent and Three Teachers Resign.

The troubles in Christ Church, Babylon, L. assumed a new phase recently, when James W. Eaton, Superintendent of the Sunday school, tendered his resignation, and Mrs. James B. Cooper, Miss Gilbert, and Miss Eaton gave up their classes. The troubles are the result of a bitter dislike which a faction of the congregation has conceived for Rector Samuel Moran. Mr. Eaton, who was a candidate for Warden on the anti-Moran ticket at the late Warden on the anti-Moran ticket at the late church election, was superintendent of the bunday school for nearly twenty years. His withdrawal was considered a blow to the Moranites, but the rector jumped into the breach and assumed the duties of the place himself. Then he filled the other vacant places with teachers of his own selection.

Falling in their attempts to get rid of the rector, many of the anti-Moranites have since withdrawn from the church altogether, or have creased to attend the church services. As a result of the disaffection there is a good deal of talk of starting an opposition church.

A WOMAN DETECTIVE AFTER HER.

Miss McNellis Causes Miss Brongon's NEW HAVEN, April 21 .- Miss Mary McNellis and Miss L. M. Bronson of New York registered at the Tontine Hotel yesterday. Last evening a deputy sheriff served an attachment on Miss Bronson alleging fraud. The com-plainant is Miss McNellis, and suit is brought to recover $400 for alleged services performed in Norwalk for the defendant while she was suffering from an injury caused by an accident on a New York surface railroad. Miss Bronson turned over a lot of jewelry to satisfy the attachment.

and one is that Miss McNellis is a detective for the New York surface railroad in question and that the detention of Miss Bronson on the fraud writ is a subterfuge to secure her in more important proceedings which are to be brought against her. It is asserted that in 1890 Miss Bronson brought suit against a New York surface railroad company for damages for alleged injuries in an accident. The case, it is asserted, was tried in the Supreme Court it is asserted, was tried in the Supreme Court of New York, Col. James of New York being Miss Bronson's attorner. As a result, Miss Bronson got a verdict for $11,000 or $12,000. The railroad company determined to send the case to the Court of Appeals, and so notified Miss Bronson, who, fearing an appeal, decided to make a compromise. She received $0,000, and all proceedings were dropped. The railroad company some time afterward ascertained that there were features of the case which led to the suspicion that the suit brought by Miss Bronson was not justified. It was intimated that Miss Bronson was not in the accident at all.

Miss McNellis belongs in Chicago, where she says she is engaged in newspaper work, and also acts as a detective for publishing houses in looking after agents. Miss Bronson's home is in Adams, N. T. Miss McNellis says she has been following Miss Bronson for some time, and finally found her in Hartford and afterward in this city.

Miss Bronson denies all of the allegations, and says that it is a blackmailing scheme. Miss Bronson goes about on a crutch owing to the alleged injuries received in the accident.

LIEUT. JOHNSON'S WAYS.

Board to Pass Upon His Pitness to Serve in the Thirteenth Regiment. A State Board of Examination met in Brookacter, capacity, and general fitness for the service of Second Lieut. S. A. Johnson of Com-pany A. Thirteenth Regiment. The Board was convened under section 83 of the Military Code. Mr. Johnson objected to Surgeon F. L. Letamore as a member of the Board on the ground that he was neither a field nor a general officer. The Board thereupon adjourned to get instructions on this point.

Secresy has been reserved about the Board and the reasons why it was convened. The chief reason is said to be that Lieut Johnson has acted in a way that has attracted attention. It is said that he went to the armory late one night and thundered at the doors to get in. Col. Austen was sleeping there and he administered a reproof to Johnson and sent him out of the building. Two or three weeks ago Johnson resigned by request. There were many channels through which the resignation had to pass, and before it could reach headquarters Johnson wrote recalling it. Then followed the order convening the Board of Examination. Johnson could not be found yesterday.

NEW DAIRY PRODUCT WHICH IS REFOLUTIONIZING DIETARY SCIENCE.

Emulsion of Cream Which Can Be Digooted by Invallds-The Parriess Brand. The evidence which vital statistics furnish, that the longevity of man is rapidly increase ing, has naturally prompted close inquiry into the causes which are bringing about this gratifying result. However, it seems to be generally agreed that it is largely owing to the great advance made in distary science. The discoveries of the great French chemists, aided by surgical operations, which laid bare the interior of the stomach while in process of digesting food, have so firmly established these fundamental facts of digestion that not only physicians, but men of affairs interested in the marketing of food products have been able to take advantage of them. Superb use has been made of one of these fundamental facts along purely commercial lines. We hear much these days of emulsions used chiefly by consumptives. The principle upon which these preparations proceed is exceedingly simple.

Investigations of dietary chemists have triumphantly established that animal fat, a most important constituent of diet, is not, in the strict sense of the word, digested, but finely divided, that is to say, made into an emulsion by the stomach, before being depos-the strict sense of the word, digested, but finely divided, that is to say, made into an emulsion by the stomach, before being deposited in the tissues or consumed as fuel in the process of producing vital energy.

When Gail Borden invented the process of condensing milk, so as to render it capable of transportation, he did not and could not take in this benefi-isi aspect of his invention. However, it being the established policy of the company which has failen heir to his patents and trade marks to seep up the efficiency of their plants, to encourage new inventions which will still further improve already valuable processes, the dietary value of Mr. Borden's invention, present from the beginning as during the last few years, reached practically its final stags. What is being sold so widely throughout the United States to-day under the name of Evaporated Cream, Borden's Peerless Brand, is perfect food for invalids. Why should a healthy stomach be taxed any more than that of the invalid or tender infant? In lact, it should be used in all cooking recipes.

Evaporated cream is milk of unusual richness, about one-quarier cream, evaporated by processes to the consistency of eream, thus effecting the all-important result of smulsion, that is, the water in the milk is removed, and the leaner portions of the stable driven into the cream, thus finely dividing it and preparing it for immediate assimilation in the stomach without tax to that delicate apparatas. Evaporated cream is a much better thing to give to invalids, for instance, than cod liver oil. It is fat—the fat of milk—and it is fat made by very simple processes of driving off the water into a perfect emulsion. The great difficulty which has kept back this valuable contribution to health foods has been the difficulty of evaporating cream without imparting to the cream a dark color and a pungent scalded taste. This unpleasant, almost repulsive taste is noticeable in almost all attempts to evaporate cream, except by the processes of the New York Condensed Milk Co

The First Trip of the Kind in Sixteen Years

-The Coronet to Return To-morre The first coaching trip between Philadelphia and this city since Col. Delancey Kane and the WANTED-First class non-union turn workman.
A. F. SMITH, 589 Essex st., Lynn, Mass. members of the New York Coaching Club tooled over the distance on May 8, 1878, was made yesterday. At 8 A. M. the Alert, Col. Edward Morrell's coach, drew away from the Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia. Col. Morrell was on the box, and the passengers were E Rittenhouse Miller, Neilson Brown, Edward Browning, H. K. Couer, and John C. Groome, Rittenhouse Miller, Nellson Brown, Edward Browning, H. K. Couer, and John C. Groome, all members of the Suburban Road Coaching Club.

The Alert was used as far as Torresdale, when the party was transferred to Mr. Brown's coach Cornnet, which came the remainder of the distance. The muddy roads held the coach back, and Trenton was reached at 11:20 o'clock, twenty minutes behind time. At 4:15 the coach reached New Brunswick, an hour late. Grace Church, Newark, where a relay of horses awaited the coach, was reached at 7:04 o'clock. Five minutes of the lost time had been made up. Changes of horses were also made at Frankford, Hulmerille, Trenton, Frinceton, New Brunswick, Franklin, Rahway, Elizabeth, and at the Jeraey City end of the Twenty-third Street Ferry. It was 6:30 o'clock when a blare of the guard's horn announced to Frourietor Boldt of the Waldorf that the party had arrived. They were an hour and a half late. A suite of rooms on the second floor of the Waldorf tor Philadelphia.

The coaches Alert and Aquidnick are to be run alternately from Philadelphia and New York, beginning on Wednesday and continuing daily, except Sundays, until May 12. The New York Coaching Club has taken the Alert from this city on Wednesday, and parties have been made up for nearly every day.

A JERSEY ANACONDA.

That's What Paterson's Sanks Experts PATERSON, April 21.-Snakes as large as that killed yesterday by James H. Hagan are not natives of New Jersey. Mr. Hagan's snake measures 6 feet 7 inches and weighs 15 pounds. Experts in Paterson say it is an anaconda.

Mr. Hagan is superintending the construction of a telephone line from Paterson to Tuxedo for the Hudson River Telephone Company.
He was driving to this city from Suffers toward evening. About half way between Waldwick and Allendale the road is in poor condition, He brought his horse to a slow trot. A shert distance ahead he saw what he thought to be a rail across the road, but it afterward proved to be a large anake basking in the sun. The regitle must have been in a rartly torpid condition.

It did not stir at the noise of the approaching vehicle. When the front whosis passed over it Mr. Hagan felt a jolt, and the next instant he was startled by a commotion in the rear of the wagon, and turning round saw dust arising, and something beating the roadway.

He way a huge apake coiling itself about the tion of a telephone line from Paterson to Tux-way.

He saw a huge snake coiling itself about the wheel, and jumping out he picked up a large stone and hurled it at the reptile. He crushed its head, and continued beating it until it lay almost lifeless. He brought it to this city, drew the ange this morning, so he says, and will have them mounted.

He made Jim McCormick, the ex-ball tosser, a present of the snake, and it is now on exhibition in his cafe. Mr. Hagan thinks the snake escaped from captivity.

Griffin says that his real name is Ling Sing, and that he falsely stated the term of residence, and that Lee Quoy correlevated the false statements.
